Smog spread is hit

The long - sought government tool to stop growth west of the hills from pouring smog into the valley appears to be at hand and Pleasanton Council Member Joyce LeClaire intends to use it to the fullest.

LeClaire recently was appointed to the Association of Bay Area Governments Environmental Management Task Force. Now that she has a couple of meetings behind her, she sees the committee as the only political arena in the Bay Area which can tell a city like Hayward to not build a 5,000 home subdivision because it would push much of the resulting air pollution into the valley.

The ABAG committee won't have such strong powers that it could actually step in and tell Hayward not to build the subdivision. Local governments would still control their own land use planning, LeClaire told The Times.

But the committee is comprised of people from governments in the nine county Bay Area and anything they say will carry a lot of psychological and moral weight with such a specific recommendation, said LeClaire.

"It could bring so much pressure, that it would be hard to start development," said LeClaire. "Then citizens of that local would be moved to oppose the development and would have the chance of getting some results," said LeClaire.

LeClaire has mixed feelings about the ABAG task force. She is glad that the committee can examine the environmental effects — primarily air and water pollution ramifications — of development in one area on other areas within the nine counties of ABAG.

But LeClaire also thinks that the environmental committee could be a foreshadowing of the long - held dream of Assemblyman John jKnox for a Bay Regional super government which would dictate local land use decisions from the heights of a nine county panel. She doesn't like that approach, but prefers as much local control as possible in planning decisions.

She also feels that in general adding another layer of government simply is not a good idea. However, she does like the environmental committee's current role of screening the environmental effects of development and making advisory recommendations.

In her two months on the panel, the group has been dealing primarily with specific recommendations on various wastewater management plans in the Bay Area. The panel won't review the LAVWMA super sewer line or Pleasanton's phaseout of the Sunol Sewage Treatment Plant because these projects are too far along, she said. She feels they have had plenty of screening already from the Environmental Protection Agency and the state.

Too many gas stations?

This Shell service station site will be one of two gas station items facing the city council Monday. The applicant wants to expand the station to the vacant lot on the right to increase the station's service capabilities. The planning commission voted it down, fearing commercial proliferation on the east side of First Street. On another item, the council will look at Gas and Save's application for a gas station at Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial Drive. (Times Photo)

New round in city's gas wars

PLEASANTON — The effects of two Gas and Save stations will highlight the city council agenda tomorrow night in separate zoning requests.

Doug Safreno is asking an expansion of the Shell Station on the corner of First Street and Vineyard Avenue, an addition of 11,000 square feet of lubrication and service bays to the vacant lot next to the station. The addition has been requested because the station leasee do more service to balance a loss in gas sales since the self - service Gas and Save opened across the street.

The Shell station expansion was denied by the planning commission last November. The commission felt that expansion of the only commercial use on the east side of First Street was not warranted, fearing it might create a falling domino effect encouraging more commercial development on the east side of First Street.

The very existence of the station came about amid controversy over whether commercial zoning should jump across First Street 10 years ago. Two council members who supported the service station zoning then were defeated for re - election by Robert Reid and Gene Rega who took a harder line on the general plan at the time.

Gas and Save wants to build a second station in the city on the northwest corner of Johnson Industrial Drive and Hopyard Road.

Some of the city's service station owners are protesting the move and their attorney, Joseph Schwab, has named a couple of grounds for their opposition.

The city planning department said five years ago that the city had at that time enough gas stations to serve the projected population to 1980. Since then, two stations — Texaco in Mission Park and the Gas and Save on First Street — have been built, said Schwab.

Schwab feels that if the Gas and Save is built5 it will be a strong magnet for traffic off Interstate 580 and will create traffic problems in and near the intersection of Hopyard Road and Johnson Industrial Drive. He pointed to the city council's attitude five years ago that a gasoline alley was developing on Hopyard Road and he feels that this attitude should be reaffirmed by the current city council by rejecting the application for Gas and Save.

In light of a citizens traffic committee being formed to advise the city on overall best use of traffic management personnel and policies for the city, Schwab thinks the council should continue Vernon Dickman's application for the station until the committee meets and forms recommendations for traffic management.

The planning commission approved Dickman's request 4-1, with Walt Wood dissenting. He thought that parking would have to be banned in front of Denny's Restaurant to accomodate cars coming out of the service station and that it would be unfair to the restaurant.

The commission majority agreed with the station's attorney, Bill Hirst, that the Gas and Save station on First Street has worked out satisfactorily and the station on Hopyard would be compatible with the gas stations on the other three corners and the other freeway oriented uses like motels and restaurants in the vicinity.

The council meeting will begin at 8 p.m in the city council chambers, 30 W. Angela.

Law suits seen as climax to Alameda County Fair

An assessment of the events of the past two weeks and possible law suits will provide the encore to the Bicentennial edition of the Alameda County Fair which culminates today in Pleasanton.

Just where any legal action will come from, in light of the cancellation of racing and picketing of the past 14 days, is uncertain.

At one point a week ago, some exhibitors were considering pooling funds to hire a lawyer with the idea of suing unions involved in the strike.

Representatives of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, the California Horse Racing Board and the Fair board had no comment on any legal action directed at unions.

Fair directors meet Tuesday, July 20 and will likely review various aspects of the Fair at that time.

The 12 days of racing scheduled at the Pleasanton facility, which would have enriched horsemen by $600,000, is apparently scrubbed for good with little chance of rescheduling at another track.

The Fair racing circuit will resume, after the two-week shutdown, in Santa Rosa Monday when the Sonoma County Fair gets underway.

Horsemen started pulling out of Pleasanton late in the week as it became evident no races would be held. The Sonoma racing secretary took entries for Monday's card in Santa Rosa at Pleasanton as well as Golden Gate Fields and the north bay track.

A crowd in excess of 20,000 is expected today with the junior livestock auction, destruction derby and shows in the Court of 4 Seasons and Amphitheatre.

Thursday's total attendance was 11,042, compared to 28,157 for the corresponding day in 1975.For the entire Fair, crowd counts have been running at barely 50 per cent of last year's.

Stoneridge fights rec storage yard

PLEASANTON — Stoneridge residents will appear before the city council tomorrow night to try to reverse a planning commission decision allowing a recreational vehicle storage yard on Stonedale Drive.

The residents claimed that the planning commission approved a park for the lot five years ago. They also admit that the commission approved maps permitting the recreation vehicle storage yard during the same period. They want the city council to decide which use should be permitted.

The planning commission already decided that the recreation yard is valid. They agreed on a 3-1 vote (Dave Shepherd dissenting) that the so -called approval of the "park" really was a map not intended to show a park, but rather a "lot." It was not inconsistent with the storage lot, they felt.

The lot is nearly complete, but the city put a stop work order on it, pending completion of the work.

On another item, the council will look at a draft of the Alameda County Solid Waste Management Plan and adoption of a joint powers agreement to implement it.

The council also will rule on Stoneson Corporation's request for conversion of townhouse zoning to single family housing zoning near the controversial recreational vehicle yard mentioned above. One of the anti - yard camp's arguments has been that if the counciL grants the single family zoning, it would isolate the recreational vehicle yard from the townhouses which it is intended to serve. If the zoning change is approved, the nearest townhouse would be two or three blocks away.

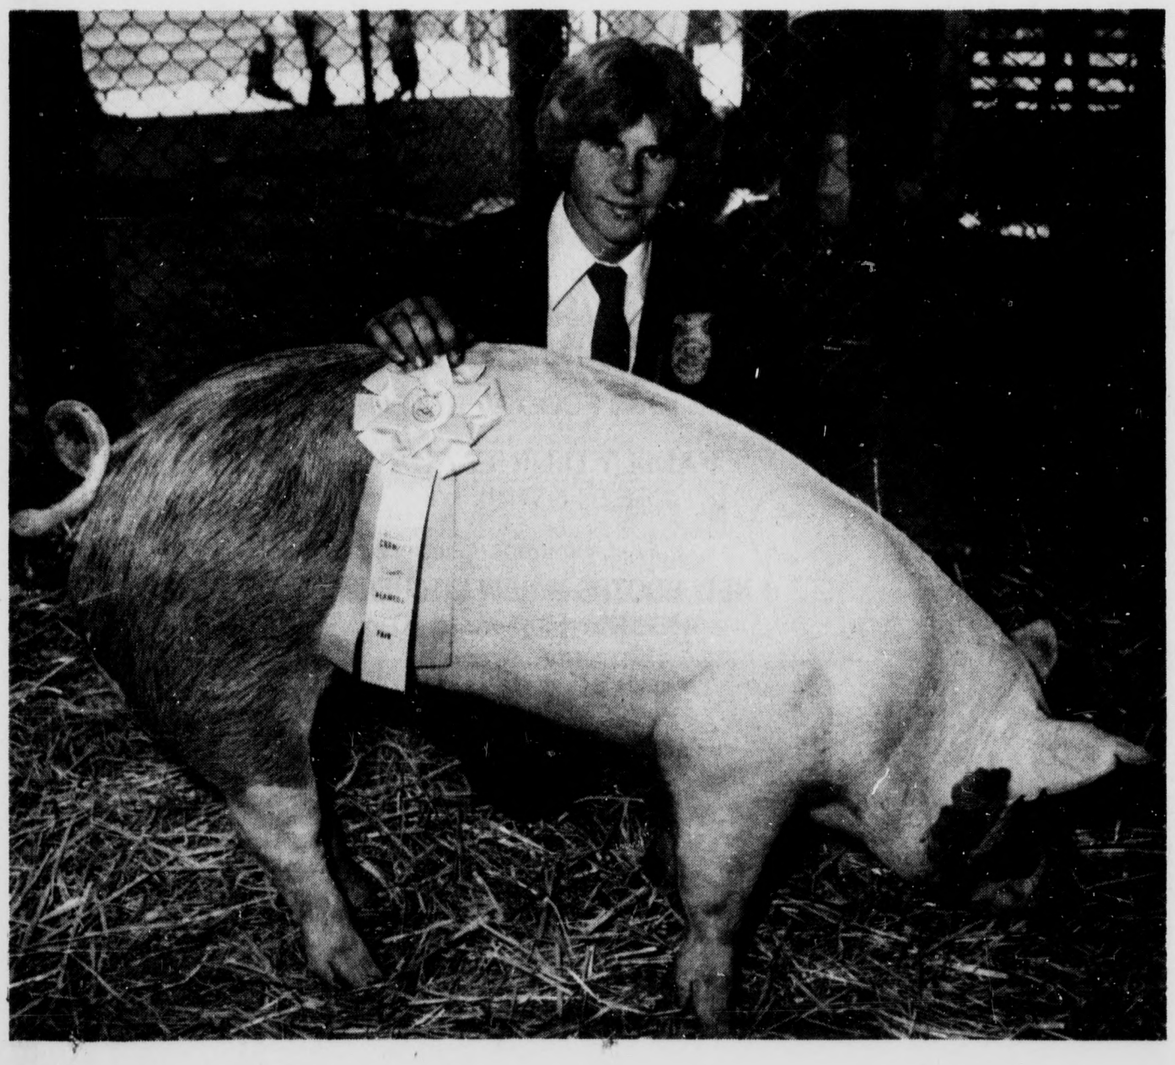
'San Ramon ' debate will be heard Tuesday

MARTINEZ — Another step in the long struggle to gain incorporation for a new "City of San Ramon Valley" will be taken here Tuesday before the Contra Costa County board of supervisors.

A public hearing is scheduled for 2 p.m. at which protests and comments on the controversial incorporation move will be heard.

The county has heard numerous proposals over the years for creating a new city in the southern extremity of Contra Costa. This latest plan would include much of San Ramon Valley, excluding new development around Mt. Diablo.

The troubled Fair ends today on a high note



At the start it was heralded as "The Bright Bicentennial Fair." And after two weeks of strife and uncertainty, Northern California's largest county exposition promises to end on that same high note.

The auction of 4-H and Future Farmer animals is always one of the big moments of the Alameda County Fair. For several hundred boys and girls it is assurance of payment for a year's hard work, and some financial risk; for buyers it is the opportunity to get top - quality meat at below - retail prices.

The auction starts at 9:30 a.m. today, continues on through a barbecue lunch and then takes up again in the afternoon. (Further detail appears on page 12.)

Burglary suspects arrested by sheriff's deputies

DUBLIN — Four persons have been arrested on suspicion of burglarizing a Gunshot Court residence after an investigation conducted by the sheriff's department.

According to reports, burglars entered John White's Gunshot Court home sometime Monday and took guns, an 8-track tape player, stereo speakers and pills of an undetermined type and quantity.

A witness reported spotting a suspect leaving the home, and a follow-up investigation led to issuance of a probable cause arrest warrant against William Mobley. After two female juveniles were arrested on suspicion of complicity in the crime, Mobley phoned the sheriff's department to surrender while deputies were travelling to his home to make the arrest.

Mobley allegedly told deputies questioning him that he and his accompliances entered the home by sliding under the garage door. A rear window to the home was also found open, deputies said.

Continued investigation into the burglary led to the arrest Thursday of Todd Siddall as a fourth suspect in the theft.

All goods reported stolen have been recovered and returned to the Whites. Mobley was charged by the district attorney on a felony complaint of burglary, while a complaint against Siddall is pending. The two girls are being referred to juvenile hall.

Heading up the investigation which led to the arrests was deputy Ralph Bradley.

Bungling safe-cracker hits Foremost - McKesson plant

DUBLIN — A lone burglar attempted to torch, drill and punch open a safe located in a conference room at the Foremost - McKesson Research Center on Clark Avenue late Thursday but was interrupted by a janitor about to clean the area.

Deputies said that a janitor moved into the conference room to begin cleaning about 10 p.m. Thursday and walked in on a man attempting to open a safe located in a nearby closet. Upon seeing the janitor, the would-be burglar dashed out of the room and left the building on foot southbound.

Deputies arrived and found an acetyline torch and assorted tools the man had used in attempts to crack the vault. There was evidence that the suspect first attempted to torch the safe open, and failing that, employed a drill and then a punch, still without success.

There were no signs of forced entry into the building, deputies reported, and the janitor said he had checked the area earlier and found it secure at that time.

The safe is reportedly used to store legal documents and a petty cash fund which was estimated at between $500-700 at the time of the burglary attempt.

The suspect was described as a black male adult wearing dark clothing and a gold watch on his right wrist. Deputies are checking the torch and burglary tools for possible fingerprints.

Burglars returned to finish the job

LIVERMORE — After being noticed in their first attempt to burglarize an East Avenue residence, burglars later returned to the house and stole an undetermined amount of valuables including guns, televisions and stereo equipment.

According to reports, a person walking past David Gregory Ross' East Avenue home Thursday heard a crashing sound in the residence. She notified her mother, who happens to be the home's landlady, and she found only a broken ashtray that had fallen from a front room mantle.

When the Rosses returned from a vacation, they discovered that burglars had taken a large amount of valuables from their home.

Both the landlady's daughter and a neighbor recall seeing a late model pick-up truck backed up to the house, which police theorize might have belonged to burglars.

A fingerprint was lifted from a jar from which a quantity of pennies had been taken by the thieves. An investigation into the burglary is continuing.

Norton Way apartment burglarized, stereo gear taken

PLEASANTON — Burglars broke into a Norton Way apartment early Wednesday and took $1,000 in stereo equipment, police reported Friday.

Craig Fabry told police that a stereo tuner and two speakers were missing from the apartment. The front door to the unit had been forced by an unknown tool, police said.

Two local Bicentennial babies arrived, just a minute apart, in the early morning hours of the nation's 200th birthday.

At two minutes to 8, Ryan Curtis Howard made his appearance into the world at Kaiser Hospital, Walnut Creek. By arriving on a holiday, Ryan continued a great family tradition that began three years ago when his brother, Scott, was born on Valentine's Day.

Both babies were two weeks late, reports their mother, Terri (Mrs. John) Howard of 6788 Melody Court, Pleasanton.

She suspects they did it on purpose. Ryan weighed a healthy 9 lbs., 6 oz. at birth and was 22 inches long.

At one minute to eight, 25 miles away in Valley Memorial Hospital, another Bicentennial boy was born, this time to Steven and Linda Robinson of 760 Katrina St., Livermore.

Steven Douglas Robinson weighed in at a bouncing 8 lbs., 7 oz., measured 21 inches in length and was delivered by Dr. Barry Kaminsky.

Other recent stork deliveres included:

At Eden Hospital, Castro Valley:

June 16, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steiner, 7354 Sheffield Court, Dublin, a girl.

July 17, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Selway of 57 Yellowstone Way, Livermore, a boy.

June 24, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marsh of 7314 Emerald Ave., Dublin, a girl.

Valley Memorial Hospital, Livermore, records a string of summer babies, including:

June 28, Jose and Laura Carrasco, Komandorski Village, Bldg. 21, Pleasanton, a boy; Jerry and Melissa Bosque, 1018 El Caminito, Livermore, a boy; Kurt and Virginia Kleinschmidt, 26655 Gading Road, Hayward, a boy.

June 29, Ronald and Felicitas Shaw, 424 Oriole Way, Livermore, a girl; Lorren and Diana Lefebvre, 5330 Theresa Way, Livermore, a boy.

June 30, Robert and Marcia Laacke, 2867 Millbridge Place, San Ramon, a girl; Albert and Victoria Guttierez 1264 Ora Ave., Livermore, a girl; Joseph and Margaret Choy, 5241 Norma Way, Livermore, a boy.

July 1, there were five girls and no boys delivered. The parents: James and Shirley Adam, 810 North O St., Livermore; Lance and Diana House, 3625 Shenandoah Court, Pleasanton; Monsour and Cathleen Mojiban, 408 Amador Court, Pleasanton; Joseph and Victoria Tamburo, 322 Lee Ave., Livermore; and Jack and Glenda Williamson, 530 Lorren Way, Livermore.

July 3 it was boys for: William and Colleen Palmer, 8049 Elgin Lane, Dublin; Mary T. Peterson, 982 West Division St., Pleasanton; and Gary and Mary Sparks, 798 Cardinal Drive, Livermore.

Airport default action eyed

LIVERMORE — The city council is being urged to initiate lease default proceedings against David Madis, fixed base operator (fbo) at the Livermore Municipal Airport.

Madis, the assignee of the Courtesy Aviation Lease at 550 Airway Blvd., is sent default notices almost monthly and "virtually continuous problems are experienced by the staff in trying to maintain lease observance," City Manager Bill Parness has informed the council.

Parness recommends the council instruct the city attorney to initiate default proceedings and any other actions necessary to void the lease.

The latest problem, according to a memo to the city manager from Finance Director George Nolan, has to do with the submittal of the tenants and sub-tenants at 550 Airway Blvd. of their federal and/or state income tax returns accompanied by an accountant's statement that the tabulation accurately reflects the businesses' gross receipts.

The businesses must pay 1 per cent of their gross receipts as rental payments to the city.

Notice of default was sent to Madis on May 26 because the financial reports and any additional rent shown to be due from the reports had not been received by the city, Nolan reports. A second notice was sent June 15 and the city attorney served Madis with a three-day notice on June 26.

"This office received certain documents on July 1, 1976 and the balance on July 2, 1976, which was one day after the three-day notice period," Nolan states. "In reviewing the documents, we feel there is only marginal compliance...."

As proof of "marginal compliance," Nolan cites an undated and unsigned 1975 tax return from Aircraft Multiple Listing (letter of accounting associates is satisfactory) and no tax return from Altamont Aviation as well as a letter from a certified public accountant that refers only to an unaudited income statement without comment.

Landeck Aviation submitted a dated 1975 tax return, Nolan notes, but an accountant's letter states an examination is pending and adds that "cash receipts ... does not appear to be materially misstated."

The Finance Department calculates $106.75 in gross receipts rentals are due to the city for 1975.

"It is the opinion of the Finance Department that the default has not been fully corrected and that the city attorney should be requested to continue with legal action," Nolan recommends.

Livermore council to view water agency's guidelines

LIVERMORE — The Livermore City Council will get its first look at proposed amendments to the Livermore - Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) Joint Powers Agreement (JPA) when it meets Monday night.

Livermore, along with Pleasanton and Valley Community Services District, is a member of LAVWMA, the joint powers agency that plans to build a large pipeline to transport the valley's sewage over the hill for eventual discharge into the San Francisco Bay.

The estimated cost to valley residents for the state - mandated project ranges from $3- to nearly $7 - million. The project is to be financed by a bond measure.

The original JPA requires that any project with a price tag greater than $1.5 million be submitted to the voters for their concurrence.

But LAVWMA directors fear that given the current economic mood of the nation, valley voters will turn down the measure, dooming the pipeline and prohibiting LAVWMA from fulfilling its orders to cease discharging the valley's effluent down the Alameda Creek.

So the agencies are taking another look at the JPA, trying to see whether it can be amended to allow the LAVWMA board to issue the bonds without voter approval.

A draft amended JPA has been sent to each of the LAVWMA agencies for their review and comment. Approval by the two city councils and VCSD board is required to amend the agreement, first drafted in June, 1974.

LAVWMA has asked each agency to send its comments to LAVWMA by July 14 so that they may be included in the directors' agenda for a July 22 LAVWMA meeting.

Mayor Helen Tirsell and Vice Mayor Dale Turner are delegates to LAVWMA, but the full city council will consider the JPA for the first time Monday night.

A final decision on the amended JPA is not expected that night.

But with time running out to get the LAVWMA pipeline on the November ballot — the final date is Aug. 20 — the three agencies will have to decide soon whether to take the chance of putting the issue on the ballot or to sidestep the voters via amending the JPA.

County strike talks resume

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — "Smart money" is betting on an imminent end to the 40-day-old strike by county service employes, with optimists viewing Friday's announcement of marathon, weekend bargaining sessions as the "light at the end of the tunnel."

Couched in the formal language of the announcement are subtleties that seem to declare a truce to the bitter, often personal war between county supervisors and striking union leaders.

Cynics are calling it "face saving" for the board — especially its chairman, Fred Cooper, for the past week the brunt of personal jibes by the union.

Cooper used a mid - week press conference to lash out at Alameda County Central Labor Council executive Dick Groulx after Groulx challenged the board president at Tuesday's regular supervisors' meeting.

"Both parties agree to discontinue all press releases and other public pronouncements concerning the discussions," says the notice, with State conciliator John McCarthy "deputized to release all future statements."

McCarthy has, until now, been a low - key middleman between union and county officials.

"Attacks on individuals on both sides will be discontinued, and demonstrations against individuals will be terminated," says the release, an apparent reference to the personal war between Cooper and the union leadership.

Union leaders had singled out what they called Cooper's "personal obstinance" to a settlement in the imbroglio that curtailed racing at the annual county fair and cut its attendance in half.

They put a daylight tail on the board chairman, stalking him around county buildings and following him to lunch; demonstrating with soup lines in front of his Alameda home; driving through his supervisorial district in a campaign to discredit him, and marching through downtown Oakland at a noon rally Friday.

Cooper may be the lone supervisor at the bargaining sessions, or may take valley supervisorial representative John Murphy.

VMH payroll, costs climb

Hospital wages inflation war

LIVERMORE — With health costs rising at a higher rate of inflation than other sectors of the economy, Valley Memorial Hospital has has taken steps to control escalating costs.

In addition to general inflation that has affected the economy as a whole, special factors have contributed to the increased cost of health care.

According to a VMH report, wage increases, increased number of personnel, advances in medical technology, rising malpractice insurance and hospital liability, and the advent of government involvement in health care have all served to hike the rates patients pay for medical care.

VMH has attempted to check the rise, the report said, by initiating shared service programs, careful budgeting and financial planning, cautious hiring practices, making use of volunteers, and better utilization of hospital services.

Wages and benefits have increased significantly in recent years. Payroll is now the largest single item in a hospital's budget.

Twenty years ago hospital wages were traditionally lower in comparison with other wage earners, but wages have begun to catch up.

More employes are required to treat patients today. The ratio of personnel to patient has risen from 1.5 employes per patient in 1957 to 2.5 employes per patient today.

Increased medical technology has greatly affected hospital service. And while the advances are vital to providing better health care, the equipment is usually very expensive.

Liability premiums for VMH have risen from $59,000 for malpractice insurance in 1973-74 to $115,000 in 1974-75 to $205,000 last year in spite of a larger deductible.

The advent of Medicare and MediCal, the report states, has created hidden costs, increasing the rates some patients pay for the benefit of others.

Hospitals, including VMH, must conform to a set of federal and state standards, requiring increased personnel to administer and carry out the regulations.

VMH has joined with four other hospitals in the Southern Alameda County Hospital Organization (SACHO) in planning and developing shared services to increase efficiency and reduce costs.

Methods to achieve that include hiring consultants and technicians to be shared by the four hospitals, initiating a self-insurance workman's compensation program, developing common purchasing and administration procedures.

VMH also requires each department to prepare its own budget with projections for increases in patient load, personnel, supplies and equipment needs. Administrative personnel must budget as much as three years in advance to aid in long-range planning.

VMH tries to reduce hiring of overlapping or unnecessary personnel. The hospital also makes use of a group of volunteers that fulfill non-medical tasks and raise funds for the hospital.

The number of hours contributed by the Auxiliary members last year would have required the services of 25 additional employes.

In accord with federal and state requirements, VMH has a utilization review committee, composed of physicians, which meets regularly to insure that hospital facilities are utilized properly, and that unnecessary admissions or the length of patient stays do not add to costs.

Patients don't stay in the hospital as long as they used to, despite rising hospital costs. The average stay at VMH (4.7 days) is lower than the average stay nationally (7.9 days) or the average Californian's stay (6.8 day).

Speedy $8,000 ambulance

Del Valle to get rescue boat

LIVERMORE — Del Valle Regional Park's five - mile lake will be patrolled by a new, speedy 23 - foot boat, come September.

The $8,000 craft is designed for speedy rescues as well as for overtaking violators of East Bay Regional Park District boating rules. There will be a berth where rescued persons from the lake can lie down, and a locker for rescue equipment. The rear deck will include a work platform for rescue operations. Lifting davits will be provided to raise rescue litters or retrieve floating items.

A respirator and scuba gear will be on board.

The East Bay Regional Park District board recently approved purchase of the craft from the Dan Arena Co. of Pacheco. It will replace an outmoded tri - hull boat with outboard motor which is being converted into an EBRPD fire department pumper.

EBRPD public safety officers explain that the new craft, with its fiberglass humm and 250 - horsepower motor, will seldom be driven at maximum speed, since there is a 10 - mph limit for power boats. But the extra engine capacity will be useful in overtaking violators or getting to the far end of the five - mile - long lake for a rescue.

The craft will be driven by an inboard motor with the propeller recessed in a "tunnel" to permit shallow draft operation. The semi - deep V - hull is designed to produce little or no wake.

Valley parents offered round of assertiveness training plus

Parents of school - aged children in Dublin, Livermore or Pleasanton are being offered another round of assertiveness training in case they missed it the first time around.

"Assertiveness Training PLUS," the free communications program sponsored by Hotline, focuses on increasing self - esteem, learning effective ways of dealing with conflict and communicating clearly.

"Information is what parents need most, and that's what Assertiveness Training PLUS supplies," says Hotline's drug education coordinator Dorris Fagan.

"Many parents lose control of the parenting role while trying to follow an endless stream of parent - advice and also trying to keep their other roles intact.

"Assertiveness training and clear communications skills help parents build, maintain or regain a sense of intactness that includes the parent role."

The training groups meet in two - hour sessions once a week for six weeks. The current series begins July 13, with optional morning or evening sessions.

The schedule: 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. at Franklin Savings and Loan, 561 Main St., Pleasanton, with Judi Barbarosh as trainer; or 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Sonoma School, 543 Sonoma Ave., Livermore, Judy Matheson, trainer.

Details are available from Hotline, 462 - 5544.

Pleasanton pre-school

PLEASANTON — Summer session for pre - school aged children three to six year olds begins Monday at Gingerbread House, 4040 Vineyard Ave.

Classes will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 a.m. to noon. Fee is $15. The sessions offer outdoor and indoor play, art projects, cooking, music, storytelling and dramatic play. For more information and to register, call 846-3202, ext. 215.

Rep. Fortney Stark boosts Jimmy Carter's candidacy

Rep. Fortney (Pete) Stark is endorsing the presidential candidacy of Jimmy Carter.

Stark (D - Oakland), who earlier supported Rep. Morris Udall, said, "Mr. Carter, through hard work and single - minded determination, has earned his party's nomination. During the primary campaigns, he proved himself to be a decent, tough and compassionate man, with strong views on the major issues facing America today."

Th congressman said Carter's proposed solutions to the problems of cities, unemployment, racial injustice and inequitable taxation were determining factors in his decision to support the former Georgia governor.

"The main questions I had about Mr. Carter have been answered," Stark continued. "When he says he favors national health insurance, I believe him. When he advocates public works jobs to help solve unemployment, I applaud him. When he calls for eliminating tax loopholes that benefit the wealthy, I am convinced.

"Mr. Carter subjected himself to the most exhaustive and detailed examination possible — the party primaries — and came out a winner, a clear choice for the nomination and the presidency. He has been able to unite the people of America like no other leader since Franklin Roosevelt. I believe his contributions to American society and mankind will be equally significant."

Chabot campuses list summer signup drops

LIVERMORE — An 8 per cent drop was recorded in the number of students registered for opening day of the current summer session at both Chabot College campuses in Livermore and Hayward.

A total of 6,246 students registered on opening day, compared with 6,794 last year, an 8 per cent reduction. Course enrollments totaled 10,299, a decrease of 1 per cent from last year.

Day students at the Valley Campus numbered 272, the first year a summer day session was scheduled at the campus. A total of 2,527 day students are enrolled at the Hayward campus, compared with 2,874 last year, a 13 per cent decrease.

Evening students at Hayward total 2,449, against 2,912 last year, a decrease of nearly 16 per cent. Evening registration at the Valley Campus amounted to 360 students, a drop of nine from one year ago.

Dr. Reed L. Buffington, president of Chabot College, indicated athat a check with other community colleges showed a decrease of as much as 40 per cent in summer enrollments. Only a few such colleges reported increased enrollments, those being "up a little."

Buffington said he thought much of the decline in enrollments is due to the expiration of many veterans' educational benefits.

County crime unit to meet next Tuesday in Livermore

LIVERMORE — The Alameda County Crime Prevention Committee will meet Tuesday in the city library and hear two members of the police department speak on crime prevention.

Sgt. Don Lee of the departments's crime prevention unit will host the meeting beginning at 1:30 p.m. at the library at 1000 South Livermore Ave.

Fair recognizes multi-talented homemakers

The largest segment of the largest county fair department, that of Textiles and Clothing in the Home Arts Department, is remarkable for the number of multi - talented entrants who capture more than one award.

Perhaps for this reason the Home Arts Department at the Alameda County Fair annually awards "sweepstakes" honors to those who accumulate the greatest number of top honors (a "first" carries more weight than a "second" and so forth). Clothing sweepstakes winner was Dorothy Jenkins of Livermore who placed in each of the 12 categories she entered: mohair sweater, women's knit vest, knit hat, knit fabric dress, pant suit, jacket, formal, men's shirt, men's pants, women's pants, baby dress and playclothes.

Bonnie Hollander of Livermore captured the Textile sweepstakes with outstanding hooked rug, potholder, handbag, pillow slip, patchwork pillow, cotton apron and denim skirt. Marie Hopkins of Livermore placed third in the Clothing sweepstakes with knitted child's clothing, knit bags, knit set, knit baby dress, knitted women's clothing and another knit item.

The Best of Knit award was carried by Geraldine Hofman of Dublin with two other prize - winning knit items, Best of Sewing by Doris McManus of Pleasanton, and Best Quilt by Nadine Thompson of Pleasanton who also earned a ribbon for her needlepoint picture and patchwork pillow.

Other multiple honor winners were Jessie Boerner of Pleasanton (tatted pillow slip and towel, tied quilt and handkerchief), Carla O'Donnell of Livermore (kitchen accessory, pillows and bicentennial picture), Dene Murphy of Livermore (bath accessory, mother - daughter set, vest, child's and women's bicentennial costumes and bag), Tanya Clark of Dublin (crochet bedspread, men's knitwear and knit shawl), Lynne Shephard of Livermore (dress, suit, shirts, family set), Cynthia Duwe of Livermore (crewel kit, original design pillow, and petite point pillow), Sue Davies of Livermore (blouse, dress, suit, original stitchery on clothing).

Also, Jean Thompson of Pleasanton (blanket, nursery accessory), JoAnna Rogers of Pleasanton (sweater and stitchery), Charlotte Elliott of Livermore (appliqued quilt and pillow slip), Barbara O'Connell of Livermore (potholder and crochet pillow), Beverly Lorenz of Livermore (jacket, formal), Elizabeth Drummond of Livermore (apron and holiday item), Jeanne Santos of Dublin (needlepoint picture and embroidered pillow), Madeline Sixby of San Ramon (pillow and original stitchery of clothing), Barbara Hickman of Livermore (dress, child's coat and original stitchery picture), Carol Waugh of Pleasanton (bicentennial quilt and bicentennial stitchery picture) and Mrs. Donald Tobin of Livermore (needlepoint picture and pillow).

Other local winners named by Judges Joy Roberts, Judy Phinney and Barbara Van Slyke, all of Pleasanton, in the Textile division include:

Quilts — Sharon Mottashed of Livermore, Rosemarie Reichmuth of Pleasanton, Della Hale of Livermore, Verretta Toland of Pleasanton, Carmen Monize of Livermore, Pamela Elliott of Livermore and Marie Brenton of Livermore. Hooked rugs — Frances Awtrey of Pleasanton. Tablecloths — Josephine Diana of Pleasanton.

Afghans — Ingrid Vest of Dublin, Amanda Mitchell of Pleasanton, Lois Sandell of Pleasanton Rosetta Smith of Dublin, Sally Ward of Pleasanton, Hazel Adams of Pleasanton, Patricia Flowers of Livermore, and Sharon Fowler of Pleasanton.

Kitchen and novelty items — Sharon Fernandes of Dublin, Brenda Sperber of Pleasanton, Marie Bushey of Pleasanton, Ursula Martinez of Pleasanton, Susan Bailey of Livermore. Bags — Shirley Robertson of Dublin.

Crewel and needlepoint pictures — Carol Buzzo of Pleasanton, Jeannette Destigter of San Ramon, Donna Larsen of Livermore, Carol Clark of Pleasanton, Lillian Claypool of Pleasanton, Peggy Harper of Pleasanton, and Falorma de Alvarez of Livermore. Pillows — Barbara May of Pleasanton, Adrienne Gale of Pleasanton, Peggy Harper of Pleasanton and Martha Wickliffe of Livermore.

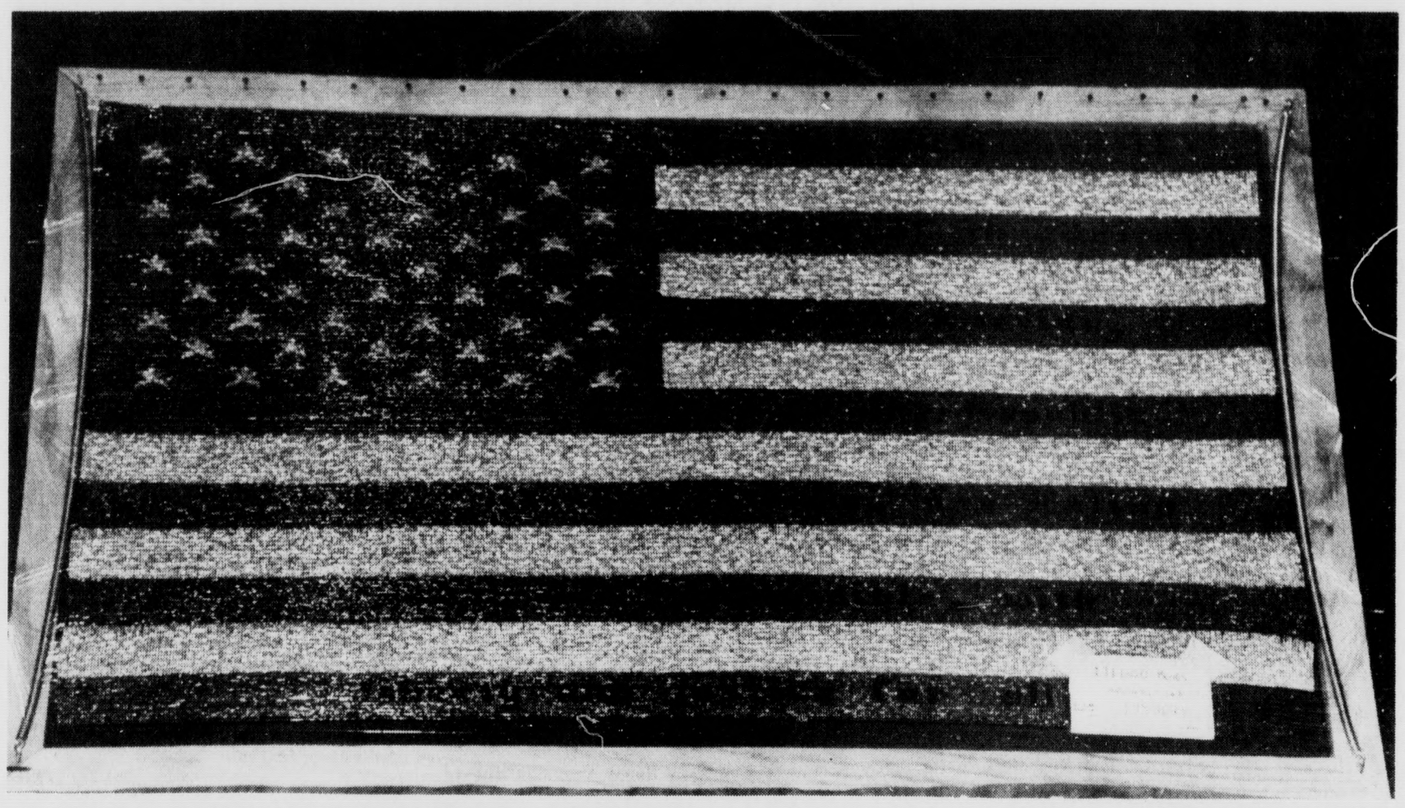
Nursery accessories — Karen Aring of Livermore, Marilyn Bennett of Livermore, Patricia Maines of Pleasanton and Beverly Warner of Livermore Aprons — Sharon Watson of Livermore.

In the Clothing division judged by Doris Burr of Hayward, Bev Anderson of Pleasanton, Shirley Kryger of Dublin and Barbara Evans of Tracy winners from the valley include:

Sweaters — Lorna Clay of Livermore, Clara Dunbar of Livermore, JoAnn Ricks of Livermore Kathy Waller of Dublin, Anne Reinhart of Livermore, Sharon Compton of Pleasanton and Peggy Peltier of Pleasanton. Other knit or crochet — Doris Spence of Pleasanton, Virginia Heckman of Dublin, Gloria Jackson of San Ramon, Kathi Crume of Livermore, Madonna Sweeney of Livermore and Sharon Fernandez of Dublin.

Dress — Arline Coffee of Pleasanton, Shirley Robertson of Dublin and Glenda DuBois of Livermore. Other sewing — Ann Gruver of Livermore, Jean Kerekes of Livermore, Janet Corrin of Pleasanton, Jane Drummond of Livermore, Sharon Watson of Livermore and Beth Hickman of Livermore.

Table decorating — Margaret Drummond of Livermore, Sharon Watson of Livermore and Jane Drummond of Livermore. Bicentennial — California High P.F.O. of San Ramon, Theo Anderson of Livermore, Josephine Diana of Pleasanton, Judy Williams of Livermore, Alverta Tebo of Pleasanton, Lee Allerton of Livermore, Paul Martin of Livermore, Jill Shearer of San Ramon, Rudene Brier of Livermore, Richard Griffiths of Pleasanton, Sharon Compton of Pleasanton and Patricia Baratta of Pleasanton.



A total of 171,000 individually-sewn beads and 195 hours of labor went into this Alameda County Fair entry by Jana Wilson of Pleasanton which captured a blue ribbon. The Pledge of Allegiance is worked into the stripes of the flag.

Scholarship named for Walter Lonsdale

At a recent meeting of the local chapter of the California School Employees Association, (C.S.E.A.), it was decided to name one of the two cash scholarships given each year after Walt Lonsdale — The Lonsdale Memorial Scholarship Fund.

The scholarships are given each June to graduating children of the C.S.E.A. members within the Amador Valley High School and Pleasanton Elementary School Districts.

The late Walt Lonsdale was a bus driver for the district for over 20 years and retired in August of 1972. During his service with the districts, he received the Safe Driver Commendation from the State Department of Motor Vehicles and special awards from the California Highway Patrol and the State Department of Education.

Today there are residents of Pleasanton who remember Walt and his smile as they boarded the bus for their first days of kindergarten and each year thereafter until graduation from Amador Valley High. In recent years he always could be seen in downtown Pleasanton waving and speaking with everyone.

Having never graduated from high school, former Superintendent Rudy Gatti presented Lonsdale with an Honorary High School Diploma.

Best wishes to Lillian, Lori, Michael, Marjie and America

It was more than just a bicentennial celebration for members of the Albert E. Welham Family of Pleasanton. Four generations, all born in July, added their names to the inscriplion on the birthday cake which read: "Happy Birthday, America — 200 Years. Great-grandmother, 75 years Grandmother, 52 years. Daddy, 30 years. Daughter, 4 years."

By name the four are Lillian M. Chittick (July 11), Marjorie Welham (July 10), Michael Welham (July 31) and Lori Welham (July 6).

Another unique feature of this family which augmented the reason for celebration is the fact that the family has been represented in four branches of the service during its history. Lillian M. Chittick is the wife of the late Lt. Col. Harry A. Chittick of the United States Army. Marjorie Welham's husband, Albert, is retired from the U.S. Navy, CMM. Their son, Michael, is presently a sargeant in the United States Air Force. A grandson, now deceased, served with the United States Marines in Vietnam and was awarded the silver star in 1970.

The bicentennial celebration took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Welham on Sandpiper Way in Pleasanton. Michael is currently stationed at Tampa, Fla., and drove his wife and three children to California to be with the family for the occasion.

Upon their return to Florida, the young Welhams will have covered 27 states in their own bicentennial tour.

Toastmistress leaders confirmed Wednesday

New officers will be elected at the July 14 meeting of the Livermore - Amador Toastmistress Club set at the Carnegie Building at 8 p.m.

Those nominated for top positions are Karen Wilson, president; Roberta Westbrook, vice - president; Betty Burgle, secretary; and Gen McMillin, treasurer.

The club will host Council 13 groups at an installation luncheon Saturday, July 17 at the San Ramon Golf Club. Captain Judity Casey of the Alameda Army Terminal will address the convocation on "The Army's Emerging Woman."

Those to be installed as council officers include Ramona Dunlop of the Livermore - Amador club who will serve as president.

Toastmistress clubs are internationally affiliated and dedicated to helping women develop leadership and communication skills. All events are open to the public. For installation luncheon reservations contact Ramona Dunlop at 828-2488.

Which overpass to clear 680?

It was inevitable that one or more home owners along the projected West Las Positas route would voice opposition to that intended overpass "because of the traffic and the noise" that would result.

The complaint sounds very much like that which came earlier from home owners along the projected Stoneridge Drive routing, and that would also provide an overcrossing of I - 680.

The problem is that no resident wants any busy boulevard, freeway access or overpass by their home, if at all possible. The even larger problem is that these major traffic routes are vital, if an entire city is to function with any degree of sanity.

For virtually all newer residential areas, those traffic routes were adopted well before the homes were built, and certainly before the present occupants moved in. A simple check of any current City Master Plan would allow the new home buyer to determine where those major routes are, or will be, and then make their home purchase accordingly.

Extension of Las Positas to Hopyard and on to Foothill has been the basis of this Valley's east - west traffic flow for the last 20 years. It is a route that is essential to commerce, to public safety and to the cost - saving transport of students.

The extension of Stoneridge Drive over the freeway is a more recent idea, but still one that was well publicized before many homes were built along that route. Because it is more readily funded, the Stoneridge overcrossing may be the community's only hope in this century of linking the Foothill areas with the balance of the city.

Such decisions must be made by a city council which is aware of the total community need, and of the price we all must pay while waiting for that east - west passage.

The week in retrospect

Racing's impact

The effects of the racing shutout and picketing at the County Fairgrounds in Pleasanton will be felt through next June.

With the far lower intake at the gate, the Fair Association Board of Directors will find itself in the position of having to cutback in some areas. How the severe decrease in revenues will react on capital improvement projects cannot be determined now.

However, before the county employes went on strike and pickets appeared at the Fairgrounds, the Fair Association had intended completing the permanent lighting in the parking area, the theater walk area and lighting along the main entry way. The Amador livestock pavilion project was also frozen.

The entertainment budget and the amount of horse racing purses could also be hit.

According to Fair officials, purses for the next season are based in part on what was scheduled to be paid this year. Total purse money portioned for the past 12 days was $600,000.

Horsemen, like the merchants in Pleasanton and the Fair Association board, will come to recall this month as "Black July."

But the Fair did not crumble as some feared when the daily announcement came that "racing for tomorrow is cancelled."

In fact, it held up quite well.

Proving, again, that "jams and jellies," good family entertainment, the carnival and the hundreds of exhibits are appreciated and attended by a lot of people.

The success of these areas is due in large part to the efforts of hundreds of 4-H youngsters and Future Farmer and high school students, as well as Peter Bailey, publicity director, and his assistant, Linda Robertson.

One thing certain, the Fair did not lack for publicity. The major communications link, as with many events, is word - of - mouth ... as spurred by young people.

Perhaps, though, there are additional channels that could be explored for next summer's Fair so that more people living in the Greater Bay Area become aware of one of the truly great county fairs in the Western United States.

We would recommend that the Fair Association and Bailey schedule a gathering of the media on the first Sunday of the Fair (or the following day) to introduce editors and entertainment page writers to the lineup of entertainment and special events planned.

Such an event would have been ideal this year as the first day's stage personality, Spike Jones, Jr., was in town and available.

As it turned out, only The Times had the foresight to meet Jones and interview him.

An effort will have to be made to secure interview time on television and radio, as well as with the metropolitan papers, to further publicize this major event in the county's life.

Fair directors will meet on the 20th to review this year's two - week season.

What with the considerable amount of tension and anxiety of the past month, it could be quite a pot - boiler.

The '76 Fair

Now that is has come to the end of that troubled stand, the 1976 Alameda County Fair lends itself to some special hindsight, and a glimpse of what might be for the future.

The fact that an exposition in Pleasanton could be brought to its knees by employes striking a board of supervisors in far - off Oakland is evidence that one man's labor strife impacts us all, one way or another.

What is less clear is why the courts, and reasonable people, could not abide by agreements and rulings that seemed to clear the Fair Association of any connection with that other strife. The county employes and the pari mutuel clerks did not win any friends with their on - again, off - again tactics with the Fair - going populace.

While we might respect the Fair's staff and its board of directors for a very difficult two weeks, we might still ask why it is they became so embroiled in the picketing that there was no opportunity to spread the word of this outstanding Fair, no beating the drums for home - town response, no effort to tell the press the "good news" about this 1976 exposition.

And we might ask the Valley's three chambers of commerce why they chose this year to cancel out their own participation, in a year when a strong outpouring of community support for the Fair would have meant so much, to all of us.

Perhaps we learn from all this that the Alameda County Fair is not "just another horse race." And it is not really that far removed from the communities which surround that Bernal Avenue site.

If that is the lesson of the "Bicentennial Fair that never really was," then it is a lesson worth remembering.

Letter to the Times

Airport food

Editor, The Times:

I would like to know what is going on with the airport restaurant "caper." Mr. Parness seems to be in a big hurry to get someone (anyone?) into the place before the Crosswind's lease is defaulted. It appears that the best interests of the City would be served if the lease was defaulted.

At present, the City is giving away the building at $850 per month. Ask any local businessman what he pays per square foot of space Plus taxes on his business sight.

Mr. Parness, I'm told, is supposed to work for the betterment of the City. Well, when is it good business to take less rent for a property that others would pay more for? Why would he "opt" for a second rate chain which caters to the station-wagon, kids and dogs crowd? We have enough fast - food drive-ins now. Why can't we have a decent dinner house that we can take pride in?

I fear Mr. Parness has held his job so long that he has forgotten who he works for, who pays his big salary, to whom he owes allegiance.

Let us all keep in mind that the City's business is the business of all of us who make up the City.

A.R. Taylor

Fallon House idea

Whatever the final disposition of the famous Fallon House fracas, one fine suggestion has risen from community discussion. Pleasanton Council Member Joyce LeClaire has suggested that private citizens dig into their own pockets and come up with a suitable memorial or replacement for Fallon House.

This would be a nice gesture to the Dublin Historical Society, which was counting on Fallon House as part of its historical building complex near Old St. Raymond's in Dublin. It would be a good act of cooperation between Pleasanton and Dublin, two communities which usually are busy with their own projects.

LeClaire has volunteered to lead such an effort. Citizens interested in helping her organize the project can reach her through Pleasanton City Hall, 846-3202, or at her place of business, 792-3838.

Pat Nixon's cross

In the great tragedy of Watergate and all that followed, there has been no more tragic figure than Pat Nixon.

Never a gregarious person, and hardly even "the typical wife of a politician," Mrs. Nixon had not won the warm response that the nation quickly gave Mamie Eisenhower, and later assigned to Jacqueline Kennedy.

It was during the Nixons' historic journey to China that most of us found in Pat Nixon a new kind of champion, a woman prepared to do her best for her husband, and her country. But even that new - found glory was to be short - lived.

No condemnation of Richard Nixon, no new revelation as to the sins of his public or private life, have ever suggested anything but faith and love from the woman who had married the man, and must now share his disgrace.

Those of us who still believe in the sanctity of marriage, and in the bond which exists between man and woman no matter what, can find a special place in our hearts for Pat Nixon. And we can find a prayer too for the woman who finally collapsed, under the burden which few of us will ever be asked to carry, or to share.

Bicentennial inventory

by John W. Warner
Administrator
American Revolution
Bicentennial
Administration

While future generations will make the final judgement, it is my belief that the Bicentennial marks a major turning point for the United States of America and its people.

Individual achievement is the hallmark of the Bicentennial. Untold millions seized this unique period of history as their chance to do "their own thing" for their community, for their Country. These individuals assured America that it got the Bicentennial it wanted.

While the grandeur of the tall ships descending on New York harbor and the indefatigable covered wagons gathering at Valley Forge deserved the headlines, first pize — in my judgement — must go to those communities which laid permanent cornerstones for Century Three.

In almost every community in each of our fifty states and territories, lasting contributions were made — be they restorations or new constructions, educational or cultural programs, or simply the achievement of all the diverse factions of a community having come together to work in harmony for the Bicentennial — which will remain long after the fireworks, the parades and the rhetoric have faded away.

Besides citizen participation, the Bicentennial has been a great learning experience. Americans have added to their knowledge of history, particularly the significance of our blueprints of government — the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights — upon their daily lives; and how and why that blueprint has enabled this Nation, although young in years, to become the oldest continuously surviving democratic Republic on earth.

Admittedly, the Bicentennial failed to meet the level of expectations of some — those who viewed it as the signal to push ahead with major needed social reform, or those who wished for spectacles tenfold greater than man landing upon the moon — but for the many it rekindled spirits. Once again, the "can do" spirit, the fiber and strength of this nation throughout its 200 years, has molded the Bicentennial into the most massive volunteer effort in the history of peacetime America.

The basic mission of the federal government and the state Bicentennial commissions was to help organize local committees and otherwise encourage participation. The Bicentennial is now in good hands — the people of the United States of America. To them goes the credit for its great success. These thoughts and this assessment are based upon my over - two years of service at the crossroads of Bicentennial coordination and upon visitation to each of the fifty states and the territories.

I believe we have a better understanding of our past — its greatness as well as its faults — and a better understanding of how all faiths and all nationalities have brought something of themselves to American life. We are a nation of nations, proud of the richness and diversity of our cultures; Bicentennial marks the end of any thought of being a melting pot.

This individual achievement, this rekindling of the spirit of rededication, this "can do" momentum of the nation, must now move on to improve the quality of life for all. As we celebrate the fourth of July and step together into Century Three, let us remember the words of President Lincoln at Gettysburg: "It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us."

EARL WATERS

Isabella

After nearly a century they are finally moving Isabella out of the State Capitol. In all that time no one has ever come forward with a sound explanation of what she was doing there.

The reference is to a marble statue of Columbus kneeling at the feet of Spain's Queen Isabella as she bestows her jewels upon him. Donated to the state in 1883 by Darius O. Mills, it has stood in the rotunda of the Capitol ever since. Reconstruction has made the removal of the building interior and fixtures necessary.

If the statue is returned after work completion it will be a colossal mistake, perpetuating a fiction of history as well as a bad precedent of exhibiting relics in the Capitol, especially those completely unrelated to California.

For, the romantic story taught school children of the queen pawning her jewels to finance the voyages is a fairy tale. The very idea of Columbus prostrating himself to win her support is hogwash. He was a proud and arrogant man who demanded a knighthood, admiralty and viceroyship, as well as ten per cent of all treasure and revenues from the lands he hoped to find.

His exploits had nothing whatsoever to do with California. In actual fact he didn't even "discover" America. He set out to find a shorter route to India and died not knowing he hadn't. His explorations centered in the Caribbean and, although he touched upon the shores of Panama and Venezuela, he never realized he had found a landmass supposedly unknown.

The supposition is false. Five hundred years before Columbus the Norse explorer Leif Eiriksson crossed the Atlantic to the coast of Newfoundland. Obviously, communication was bad in those days and the rest of the continentals didn't get the word.

Insofar as modern history is concerned the real discoverer of America was the mariner, Amerigo Vespucci who, sailing under the flag of Portugal, made land in 1502 along the Rio de la Plata and identified his findings as a new continent. Although he never set foot on North America, the continents were named after him.

The first explorer of that era to view the upper continent of the new world was the Italian captain, John Cabot, sailing for England. He anchored in the Gulf of St. Lawrence in 1497.

As for California, credit generally is accorded the Spaniard, Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo, as being the European to view the state which he named after the mythical land of gold and fabulous women described in the 15th century novel "Las Sergas de Esplandian." That was in 1540. The colonization of the state was to await Father Junipero Serra more than 200 years later. The Atlantic seaboard had by then been settled for more than 150 years and was only seven years away from revolution.

If the statue isn't symbolic of any event connected with the state perhaps there is something significant about the donor. Hardly. Mills gets small mention if any in the history books. Amid the gold rush he was involved in mining and became president of the Bank of California which later collapsed. He dickered with Collis P. Huntington for his interests in the Central Pacific (later Southern Pacific) but the deal was never made.

How he came by the statue is not known. Why he gave it to the state can only be conjectured. Maybe he wanted to get rid of a white elephant and hit upon the bright idea of establishing it as a monument to himself.

The State Capitol was built as the seat of government. It was to be a functional building, not a museum. If for some obscure reasons there are those who believe some statuary will enhance it, at least the figures should have some significance in the state's history.

round the town

Most observers agree it shapes up as the hottest issue in the forthcoming presidential elections.

The Ford camp is divided, one insider rating it as "the strongest stand the president has ever taken on a major issue ... it's the proof we needed that this man has GUTS!" Another White House official would only answer "This is the end!" when asked to comment.

One thing for certain, the question of father - son, mother - daughter affairs at the nation's public schools will not soon die away. Nothing, but nothing has so stirred up the nation since Gerald Ford assumed the presidency. Observers are now wondering if Ford can survive this test.

Once again, surmising the importance of this whole father - son matter, your favorite home - town newspaper was able to obtain first - hand information as to how our beloved president got himself into this mess. The First and Fourth amendments preclude us from revealing our sources, but we can assure you that the following is the precise exchange that took place between the president and Mrs. Ford in their bedroom, just before nighty - night time on Wednesday last. The first voiee you hear is that of the president.

"Hoo boy, what a day. Taiwan is threatening to bomb Montreal. The Israelis want to invade Yankee Stadium. Kissinger wants a vacation. I just can't imagine things getting any worse."

"Then you haven't read the evening papers," Mrs. Ford says. "Take a look at what's been happening to your beloved country while you fool around with those foreigners."

"Gosh o'willikins," the president explodes, reading rapidly, "Why did Charles Schultz pick a time like this to make fun of Wimbledon??"

"Not the comic page, you idiot," Betty says, "turn to the front page ... read that story there about the Health, Education and Welfare Department's attempt to destroy the most cherished of our American traditions — the father - son, mother - daughter gatherings on school campus."

"You don't mean to tell me HEW wants father - daughter and mother - son gatherings on campus? I knew I should have fired that misguided homo..."

"No, it's worse than that," Betty Ford interrupts. "They want to abolish the whole business. It's another attempt by the super - libs to embarrass us with the conservative vote. I can see Jimmy Carter's tooth in all this."

"Yes, yes," the president agrees. "We need a cabinet meeting on this problem right now. Hello," he says into the intercom, "will you please round up Jack and Susan and that other funny kid right away? Yes, I know what hour it is, but this is urgent, dammit! Jack will simply have to practice his Midnight Ride of Paul Revere some other time. Tell him to get in here right away."

In due time Susan, Jack and the other funny kid arrive.

"This is an awful hour to be calling a family summit session Dadeeo," Jack says, lassoing the presidential seal behind the bed. "Couldn't this little problem wait until morning?"

"No it couldn't," the president insists. "And put down that stupid lasso. The housekeeper is still raising Cain about that busted Lincoln statue you roped in the rotunda."

The president then reads the newspaper item to the assembled group.

"Whoopee!" Susan exclaims. "At long last they are going to abolish those stupid father - son affairs in the public schools. I can't tell you how happy that makes me."

"Happy?!" the president explodes. "You idiot, don't you realize importance of the father - son, mother - daughter gatherings? They are the bedrock of this nation's strength."

"Bedrock, shmedrock," Susan asserts. "They were a source of great humiliation to us girls. I went right through college before any of my friends knew I had a father, and now that they know, they won't talk to me."

"Now just a rope - ticklin' minute," Jack says. "I looked upon those father - son get - togethers as some of the great moments in my young life. Why, I would never have known how to rope if it hadn't been for old Dad here."

"I agree with Jack," Betty Ford says. "It just seems normal for fathers to go with sons and mothers accompany their daughters. It makes finding the bathroom so much easier, for one thing."

"What's the other kid think?" the president demanded, but then adding, "Oh never mind. No one pays much attention to divinity students these days anyway. Let's have a vote."

And so it was that, by a vote of 3 - to - 1 and one abstaining, the president of the United States vetoed the HEW move to ban father - son gatherings on campus.

Only history and Kansas City will ever know the importance of that midnight summit in the presidential bedroom.

astrograph

For Sunday, July 11, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although everything won't go as you'd like today, you should be quite lucky financially. Concentrate in that area.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The early part of the day may hold some frustrations. But be of good cheer. By afternoon conditions should brighten.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In a situation where you'll be doing something for another today, use their resources and materials, not your own.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be afraid to change your mind today if you're doubtful of your original decision. Your second thoughts are your best.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your own self-doubts are your biggest handicap today. Proceed boldly, but don't abandon caution altogether.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're luckier with things today if you're left to your own devices rather than letting another do your thinking.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your material prospects appear quite encouraging today. Chances for gain could be thrust on you unexpectedly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's very important to be a good listener today. Valuable information could be acquired from a friend's casual remark.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The returns on what you truly earn will be good today, but situations where you expect a free ride are apt to fizzle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Alternatives available today regarding a matter of importance could prove to be better than your original plan.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your cleverness and ingenuity will surface today if you're hampered by roadblocks or opposition. Play your hunches.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Some frustrations to contend with today, but be of good cheer. You have more positive things going for you than negative.

VMH power restored when spare part found

LIVERMORE — A power outage at Valley Memorial Hospital began at 11 p.m. Thursday when a main breaker failed though it was restored seven hours later when a replacement part was discovered at Veterans Administration Hospital across town.

Assistant VMH Administrator Larry Freeman said the trouble began at 11 p.m. Thursday when one of the hospital's three main breakers failed.

Throughout the evening the hospital elevators, air conditioning and heat functioned intermittently.

During the outage, VMH functioned on its emergency generator. Operation and maintenance equipment was switched to manual.

Disruption of patient services was minimal, Freeman said, because at that late hour most of the patient treatments had been completed.

"With few exceptions most of the patients slept right through," Freeman said. "It started to get a little stuffy, but for the most part there was no discomfort to the patients."

The staff did open windows in the intensive and coronary care units.

freeman said the problem was "one of those flukey things." The biggest difficulty came in locating the source of the breakdown Freeman said which took a while to trace.

"Fortunately after we found out what was wrong, the VA Hospital had the part we needed, probably the only one in the valley," he said, noting that electricians were on strike.

It was just by chance that the VA Hospital happened to have the necessary part. An old VA building had been torn down, and a VA engineer saved the part.

VMH called in a consulting electrician, and together with the VMH engineering staff, the part was installed and full power restored at about 6:15 a.m. Friday.

Aside from a few tired VMH personnel, all was back to normal by Friday morning. Freeman said the hospital did not expect a recurrence of the problem.

You're about six billion years older than you first thought

LIVERMORE — Researchers at Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, using a new, astrophysical clock, have concluded that the universe is about 20 billion years old — three to six billions years older than previously believed.

LLL physicists John C. Browne and Barry L. Berman performed experiments on the new "clock" that enabled them to compute the age of the universe.

The "clock" is a figurative device that tells time by a fundamentally simple nuclear mechanism: the rate of decay of the radioactive isotope rhenium-187 into its stable product isotope osmium-187.

The use of this process for keeping cosmological time was proposed in 1964 by Professor D.D. Clayton of Rice University as being theoretically more sound than the other principle nuclear dating technique, based on uranium-thorium decay processes.

At the time Clayton proposed the technique, however, it could not be used because two other nuclear reaction by which osmium-187 could be created and depleted were involved which could not be measured.

In the July 8 issue of the British scientific journal, Nature, Browne and Berman describe experiments in which they precisely measured the two spurious reaction rates.

What they determined was the length of one epoch in the universe's history, the so-called period of nucleosynthesis which began with the formation of our galaxy (the Milky Way) and ended with the formation of our solar system.

It is generally estimated that galaxies were created about two billion years after the universe was born. There is significant evidence that the sun was formed about 4.6 billion years ago.

The LLL researchers assumed these figures to be correct, and set out to determine the length of the intervening period during which essentially all of the chemical elements were created.

The two nuclear reactions of particular interest involve the stellar interactions of neutrons with nuclei previously synthesized within stars.

In one, osmium-186 captures a neutron and becomes osmium-187; in the other, osmium 187 captures a neutron and becomes osmium-188.

The rate at which osmium-187 is thus simultaneously created and destroyed by these reactions had not been measured previously, mainly because of the rarity of the isotopes involved and the consequent difficulties both in preparing pure sample of them for experimentation and in performing measurements the measurements involved.

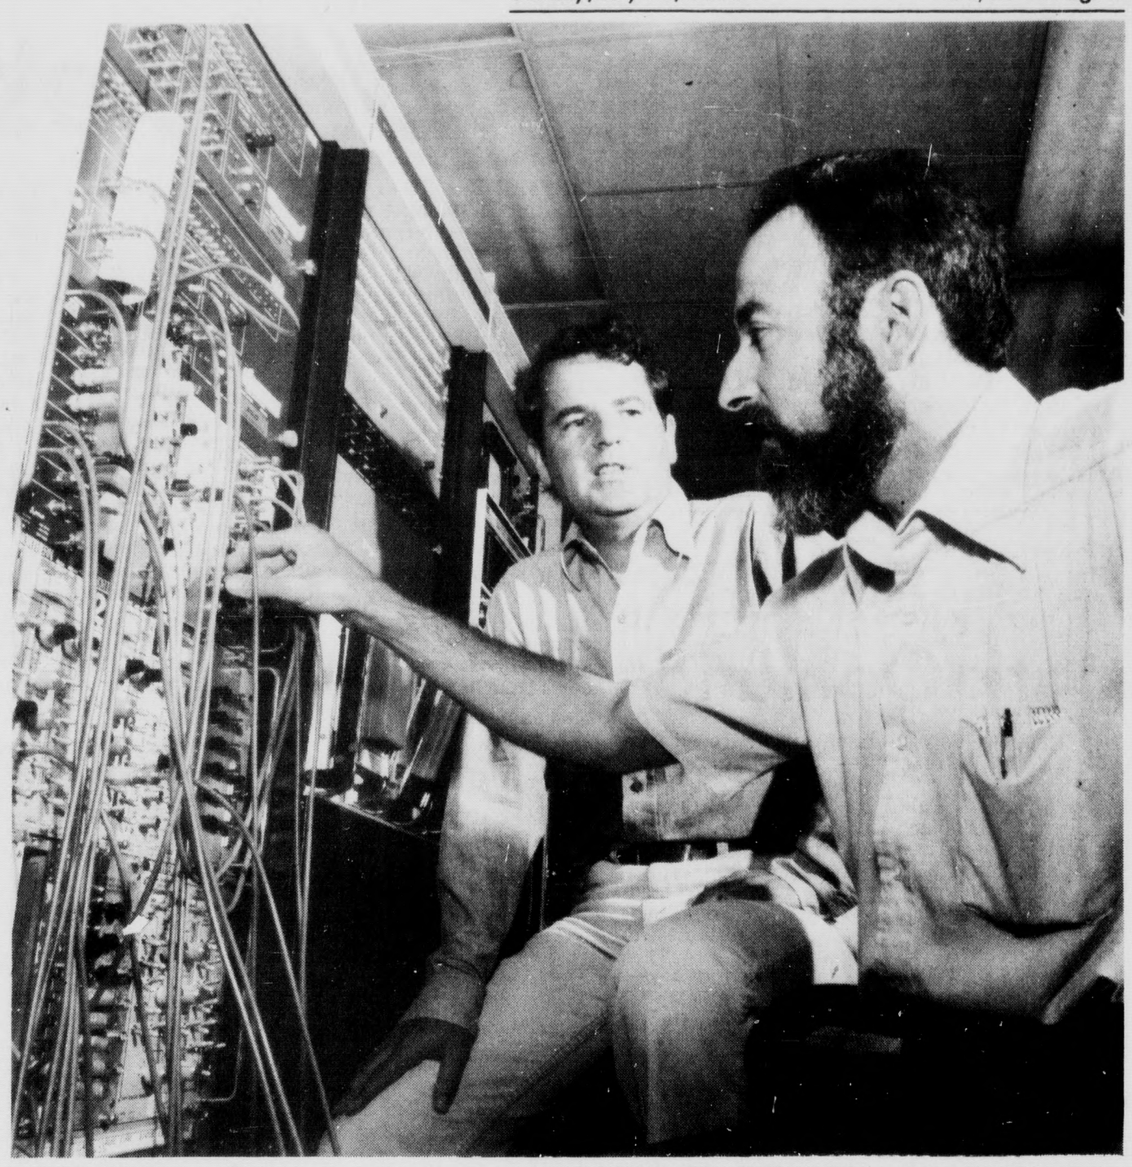
Browne and Berman obtained the largest and purest samples of osmium-186 and -187, a few grams of each, produced specifically for this experiment over a period of many months on a Calutron isotope separator at Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

The physicists made careful measurements of the rate at which the two nuclear reactions occur, using LLL's 100 million electron volt electron - positron linear accelerator to generate neutrons having energies camparable to those found in stars (equivalent to a temperature of about 300 million degrees C).

There are two reasons that the use of the rhenium - osmium decay clock has advantages over the uranium-thorium clock used previously.

The new clock is less susceptible to errors which might arise from uncertainties in the details of the stellar processes involved.

Second, the rhenium - osmium decay occurs along a well - understood pathway for neutron - capture events in stars, the validity of which is accepted universally. In contrast, processes inherent in the other technique have never been measured and must be estimated from theoretical considerations alone.



LAWRENCE LIVERMORE LABORATORY physicists John Browne (left) and Barry Berman, using a new, astrophysical clock, have demonstrated that the universe is 20 billions years old, three to six billion years older than had been previously thought.

Scientists claim N. America man 70,000 years old

LA JOLLA (AP) — As the nation celebrates its 200th birthday, scientists here begin digging in a residential backyard for evidence man has been in North America far longer than previously thought — up to 70,000 years.

The excavation began Thursday near the swimming pool behind the home of Dr. William McElroy, chancellor of the University of California at San Diego.

Scientists and student helpers are looking for evidence of a people they believe lived here about 40,000 years ago. Stone tools and human bone fragments dated up to 39,000 years old by a new amino acid dating system have previously been found in the same area at the northwest edge of San Diego.

Dr. Jason Smith told reporters before the dig started that man may have been in North America for 70,000 years because that is the last time before the 40,000 year period that there was a land bridge from Asia to North America. Scientists generally believe North Americans came by land.

Smith, an internationally known archaeologist from Northridge, said that "until 5 or 10 years ago, it was tough to find an archaeologist who would admit that man was in the Americas much more than 10-15,000 years ago."

The amino acid dating system developed two years ago by Dr. Jeffrey L. Bada, associate professor at Scripps Institution of Oceanography, shocked many by putting the age of a skull found in this area 40 years ago at 48,000 years old.

Smith said the amino acid system and others including the traditional Carbon-14 procedure will be tested during and after the current excavation, which is expected to last until autumn.

In an interview, Bada said he welcomed the tests of his dating process, which the young Scripps professor of marine chemistry said has been found to be "in good agreement with other dating methods."

Stone chippings, small pieces of bones and unusual shells were found in the first few hours of the digging, which is near where a human skeleton was unearthed in 1929.

Since then, portions of the ground have collapsed and stone tools have been found.

The scientists include Dr. Richard S. MacNeish of the Peabody Foundation for Archaeology in Andover, Mass., who is known internationally for fundamental reconstructions of human prehistory in the New World.

Valley First group expands its interest

PLEASANTON — The Valley First Committee, a political advocacy group, has set the first Wednesday of each month as the official date for its monthly meeting.

Regular meetings will be held at 8 a.m. at La Villa Restaurant, 475 St. John's St., Pleasanton. Membership dues are $2 per year.

The VFC, formed to further the election of candidates in the Zone 7 race in June, has expanded to cover vailey - wide issues. The committee will be active in the up-coming First District Supervisorial run-off between incumbent John Murphy and challenger Valerie Raymond.

The VFC will also study such issues as the need for new industry in the valley, business signs, citizens' lack of freedom of choice, cooperation between concerned valley citizens, and who will best represent all segments of valley thought.

Braves capture title

FREMONT — Bouncing back from a stunning defeat in the opening contest the Filper Corporation Braves of Dublin won the District 57 senior league championship by topping the Centerville National Tigers 8-5 at Olivos School yesterday.

The Braves had lost the opening game of the doubleheader 7-6.

What made the victory even sweeter was the fact the Braves lost in the semi - finals last season.

"All but four players from last year's team were back this season," said manager Frank Caloiaro. "We really had a well - balanced team this year. He had good hitting, speed, everything."

Dublin entered the doubleheader undefeated.

Centerville grabbed a 2-0 lead in the first inning of the second game but the Braves tied the game up in their half of the inning and gradually pulled ahead.

A three - run rally in the sixth proved to be the decisive factor for Dublin. Dan Pearson led the winners' attack with a home run and three other hits. Second baseman Mike Caloiaro added four singles and Rick Rosenbach had a double and two singles.

Willie Langenhuizen was the winning pitcher, striking out eight batters and walking seven. He allowed six hits. One was a double and the rest were singles. He went the distance.

Joe Saveria was the losing hurler, giving up 13 hits.

The turning point of the first game came in the fifth inning when Tiger pitcher Ken Beecham belted a three - run home run over the center field fence to tie the score at 6-6.

His brother Tim, the Tiger left fielder, walked to open the inning and first baseman Scott Hunter singled him to second. Ken Beecham then blasted his shot.

The Fremont club added another run in the same inning. After Beecham's home run Rob Costa walked, went to second on a fielder's choice, Glen Johnson walked, then Costa stole third. A wild throw in a pickoff attempt brought in Costa with the winning run.

Dublin had taken an early lead when the Braves scored twice in the opening stanza. After Dan Pearson fanned to open the contest Mike Caloiaro singled to right field. A bunt single by shortstop Jeff Bynum sent Caloiaro to second and an overthrow by the Tiger third baseman scored him. Pitcher Rick Rosenbach then smashed a single to drive in Bynum with the second run.

Centerville came right back with three runs of their own in the second. Costa walked to open the inning, Mike Dixon sacrificed him to second. Costa then scored on an error. Dan Bontente grounded in the infield but the throw was low at first and all hands were safe. Andy Medrano then belted a double to score two runs.

However, the Braves tied the score in the third. Both Dan Pearson and Caloiaro walked with one out. Bynum then sacrificed to advance both runners. Another wild throw on a pickoff attempt allowed Pearson to score.

The Braves went ahead in the fourth. Catcher Doug Daugherty walked to start the inning and left fielder Mark Starsiak singled him to second. Center fielder Willie Langenhuizen struck out but Tom Pearson singled home Daugherty.

Dublin appeared home free in the fifth when it added two more runs.

Bynum walked to start the stanza. Rosenbach then blasted a double to center, sending Bynum to third. After Daugherty fanned Starsiak singled to score Bynum. Langenhuizen struck out but Tom Pearson slammed a single, scoring Rosenbach.

The Braves outhit the Tigers, 10-3 but Ken Beecham's home run was the big blow against them.

Rosenbach hurled eight strikeouts and walked four. Beecham walked five and fanned five but he got the big hit.

"It wasn't one of Rick's better games," Frank Caloiaro said after the contest. "He was tired. He threw a lot of pitches out there. His control wasn't good."

Caloiaro also moaned about the Braves' mishaps.

"We just made too many mistakes out there," he said.

Final racing day stopped by Hall

Yesterday's final racing program at the Alameda County Fair was cancelled Friday by Lee R. Hall, secretary - manager.

It was the twelfth announcement made by Hall and for the same reason. Union members did not want to cross the picket lines set up by striking Alameda County employes.

It proved to be a costly shutdown. The Alameda County Fair lost approximately $1,200,000 and the horsemen were denied $600,000 in purse money while the state of California was minus $650,000 in tax revenue.

Rudi, Ringers spark Oakland

It was definitely a day to take your cap off to the runnin' A's.

And that's what a Cap Day crowd of 22,149 fans did Saturday as Chuck Tanner's Oakland team pilfered eight bases en route to a 7-3 victory over Pat Dobson and the Cleveland Indians.

The win gave the A's five wins in six starts on the current home stand Oakland winds up its pre - All - Star Game activity today at 1:30 o'clock with Paul Mitchell slated to take the mound for the A's and Fremont's Dennis Eckersley attempting to salvage the final game of the three-game series for the Tribe.

Oakland broke a 3-3 tie in the bottom of the seventh Saturday with two singles, a Joe Rudi homer and sacrifice fly balls by Campy Campaneris and Don Baylor.

That rewarded mustachioed Rollie Fingers with his fifth triumph against a like number of losses. The ace fireman of the Oakland staff has saved seven games this year and heads for Philadelphia and Tuesday's All - Star Game on Monday.

Vida Blue was in quest of his 100th career victory and appeared he would have it before the pleasant summer afternoon was history.

He owned a 3-0 lead after four innings before Rick Manning and Larvell Blanks produced run - scoring singles for the Indians in the top of the fifth. Then Cleveland sent Blue to the showers in the seventh with successive base hits by Frank Duffy and Manning. The first man Fingers faced, Blanks, singled in Duffy and that tied it. But Rollie bore down to strike out dangerous Frank Robinson and retire cleanup hitter Rico Carty on a fly ball to center.

In the bottom of the seventh, sweet - swinging Billy Williams started things off with a crisp pinch hit single to right. Larry Lintz went in to pinch run and promptly stole second Billy North singled Lintz to third. Then Billy proceeded to swipe second, giving him 41 for the year. The A's have 180 as a team.

Campaneris hoisted a sacrifice fly to right bringing in Lintz with the speedy North scurrying to third. Designated hitter Baylor sent one of Dobson's offerings deep to center and North trotted home with run No. 5 for Oakland. Up stepped Rudi and he hammered a solo homer over the left field wall at the 340-foot mark to put the icing on the cake.

Oakland garnered another run in the eighth on a walk, a single and an error. Gene Tenace crossed the plate.

Oakland got a run in the first when Rudi scored Campaneris with a sacrifice fly Campy got on with a check swing single that trickled a few feet from home Baylor singled. And then both baserunners stole successfully.

Phil Garner singled in two runs for the A's in the second.

Ron Pruitt, a fellow who had appeared in only 13 games before Saturday's contest, had his troubles all afternoon long with the flying feet of the A's. But it wasn't all his fault. Dobson doesn't have the speediest delivery in the game.

Pruitt wears No. 13. It was definitely apropos Saturday.

Rudi's homer was No 7. Joe has hit four of them off Cleveland pitching.

Eight-year old George Martin, Jr. captured first place in the Junior Novice Rigid Class at the Western States Quarter Midgets auto racing championship at the Baylands track in Sunnyvale recently.

Giants' Chris Speier makes putout on Cub's Jerry Morales

Madlock hits HR as Cubs top SF

CHICAGO — Bill Madlock's 10th home run off the season broke up a tie game in the eighth inning and Manny Trillo drove in four runs Saturday, pacing the Chicago Cubs to an 8-6 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Madlock hit the first offering from reliever Randy Moffitt, 4-3, the fifth of six Giants pitchers. Pete LaCock delivered a one - out single and was driven home by Trillo's triple, his third extra - base hit of the game.

The two - run burst gave the triumph to Darold Knowles, the Cubs' fifth pitcher.

The Giants, trailing 6-3, tied it in the sixth when Gary Matthews doubled and was driven home on a single by Bobby Murcer, who hit a three - run homer in the first inning. Darrell Evans then doubled and was driven home by Ken Reitz' single.

The Cubs opened their 6-3 lead when Jose Cardenal doubled to start the third inning, went to third on a fly ball and scored on Jerry Morales' single. After LaCock forced Morales, Trillo belted his third home run of the season.

The Giants quickly jumped on starter Steve Renko with consecutive one - out singles in the first inning by Marty Perez and Matthews before Murcer slammed his 10th home run.

The Cubs got the runs back in their half on a pair of singles and two doubles, one by Trillo.

Rick Monday opened the Chicago first with a single and scored on Madlock's double high off the center field wall. LaCock singled Madlock home and Trillo then slammed his double to the right - center field wall, scoring LaCock.

The win was the Cubs' sixth in their last seven games.

The Giants missed opportunity to go ahead in the seventh and eighth innings when they stranded a total of five runners.

They loaded the bases in the seventh on a single and two walks, one of them intentional, but Mike Garman came in and got Reitz to fly out, ending the inning.

Knowles relieved Garman after Chris Speier opened the San Francisco eighth with a single. After a sacrifice, Knowles struck out pinch hitter Chris Arnold, walked Gary Thomasson and got Marty Perez to fly out.

Cunningham sets record

Davitt Cunningham of San Ramon High School, competing for the Pleasant Hill Swim Club, set a Pacific Association record in the men's 100-meter butterfly with a 1:00.413 clocking in Friday mornings' championship finals at the NorCal Senior Invitational Swimming Meet at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill.

He also broke a record in the preliminary round of the men's 100-meter backstroke with a 1:02.88 time. His clocking during the finals was 1:04.312.

Katie Fleischer joined Pleasant Hill teammates Shelly Carbone, Sheryl Smiarowski and Kim Veenstra in taking first in the women's 400-meter medley relay with a 4:37.835 clocking.

Luethke rallies, takes Peluso title

For a golfer who found plenty of fault with his play Ed Luethke sure came through with an outstanding performance Friday afternoon.

All the 16-year old Los Altos athlete did was capture the overall championship of the Peluso Junior golf tournament with a blazing 70 for the 18-hole playoff at San Ramon National Golf Club. 23 athletes advanced from the age-group finals in the morning to the playoffs in the afternoon.

"I just wasn't swinging well at all," the Homestead High School student said. "I guess the reason I won was because I made a lot of putts. Also my chipping was really good. These greens are soft."

Luethke finished with an overall score of 217, five strokes ahead of runner-up Bill Corbett (222). Bryan Pini and Keith Clearwater tied for third with 223s. Tom Straeter was the top local finisher, firing a 233.

Corbett took the boy's 16-17 competition with a 145 total, two ahead of Luethke's 147. Vince Baxter was third with a 148.

Straeter finished with a 152 for 10th place.

In the boy's 15-14 division Rick Brown defeated the competition with a 152 total, two strokes ahead of Monte Vista High School's Dave Najarian with a 154. Chris Mulls was third with a 155.

"I just didn't putt well," Najarian commented The Mustang sophomore was one of the top players on Monte Vista's North Coast Section champions last spring.

Robert Myer won the boy's 12-13 competition with a 156 for the 36 holes. Rob Boldt was second with a 158.

There were only two competitors in the girl's 15-17 group. Brooke Thomas won with a 176 total and Karen Whitey shot a 181.

Judy Hoffman fired a 100 to win the girl's 14-and-under competition. Lisa Whitey also had a 100 but Hoffman won the championship with a better third hole.

In the boy's under-11 competition Scott McCarron breezed to an easy victory with a 95. Joey Paretta was second with a 106.

Prehaps the biggest disappointment of Friday's competition was the play of Kurt Posey of San Francisco.

Posey, who led the boy's 16-17 division competition with a fine 70 in opening action Thursday, slumped to a 231 overall score.

The slump was particuarly frustating for Posey since he had a chance to win two crowns in a row. Last week he captured the Salinas Championships.

Local golfers advance in Public Links trials

John Czapowski and Roger Young, both members of the Las Positas Golf Club, were among two of the golfers who advanced to the Northern California Golf Association Public Links Championship after trials were held yesterday at Las Positas Golf Course in Livermore.

Czapowski and Young were two of four golfers the Livermore course sent. Frank Cresci of Walnut Creek Golf Club and Hugh Harrigan of Lake Chabot Golf Club completed the Las Positas contingent.

Both Young and Czapowski shot net scores of 71, playing in the "Spyglass Hill" flight, where handicaps were 12 and up. Young's gross score of 91 computed to 71 after his 20 handicap was applied, while Czapowski's handicap of 15 offset his 86 score.

The two local golfers shared second place, while Cresci fired an 82-66 to run away with first place. Harrigan garnered the final spot after a three-way tie developed at 72 between Harrigan, Keith Hillegas of Sunol Valley Golf Club and David Visbeck of Livermore's own Springtown Golf Club.

18 players vied for the four positions offered, with the best overall gross score of the day turned in by Cresci, who also was the winner after handicaps applied. Harrigan and Hillegas followed with 85's, while Czapowski fired an 86.

At Franklin Canyon Golf Course in Rodeo, two local golfers competed along with 25 others for six spots offered in the "President's flight," with handicaps of five through 11 applying.

William Ryan, of Las Positas Golf Club, finished in a fourway tie for the sixth spot, but lost out in a playoff to Richard Gonzales of Palo Alto Golf Club. Others in the tie were Concord Golf Club's Tim Harris and Skywest Golf Club's Henry Suico, Jr.

Ryan fired an 81, computed to a net score of 70 after his 11 handicap was applied.

Kent Parker of San Ramon Golf Club finished back in the pack with a net score of 73.

A total of 131 golfers will advance to the finals, to be held July 31 and August 1 at Spyglass Hill Golf Course in Pebble Beach. 14 other courses around Northern California held qualifying rounds yesterday.

Booter wins weekly award

Lisa Thomas, whose four goals in the semi-finals and finals of the Calgary Girls Soccer Invitational lifted Pleasanton United to the under-14 championship is the winner of this week's Times Outstanding Athlete award.

Others considered for the honor were bowler Don Thurman, who rolled an 872 four-game series at Granada Bowl, eight-year-old George Martin of Livermore, who won the Western States Quarter Midget Auto Racing championship in the Novice Rigid Class.

Honorable mention also goes to Danny Payne and Billy Hunt of the Al Caffodio All-Stars, who scored two goals apiece in a 6-3 win over Sportjugend Braunschweig of West Germany at Dublin High School Tuesday night.

Editor's Note: In keeping with the spirit of this award, which is open to anyone living or competing in the Valley, the Times would like to point out that due to the vast amount of sporting events in which local residents are involved, we are unable to attend every event.

Thus, we encourage anyone who wishes to do so to make us aware of any events we may be unable to cover in person by mailing, phoning (or best of all), dropping off the results at our offices.

Springtown team loses at Spyglass

SAN JOSE — First round leader Springtown had both of its foursomes slip back over par Friday and had three Peninsula team knock them out of the top three spots at the San Jose Zone Championships of the Northern California Golf Association at Spyglass Hill here Friday.

The Livermore team fired a 61 in the opening round of the event Thursday via a 65 by Howard Whiting and Mark Hartman and a 71 by Bob Larson and Mike Foster.

However, while the valley foursome was losing strokes Friday, first - time entrant Menlo Country Club rallied to nose out Springtown and join Palo Alto Hills and Saratoga as the teams going on to the NCGA team championships here in early September.

A birdie on the par - five seventh hole by a Menlo player gave that team first place honors after a three - way tie had developed at 124.

One other local team matched Springtown's near - winning performance. Castlewood, with Robert Watson and Jay Yarbrough leading the way, also had a 128 total for the tournament as did Danville's Round Hill.

DePrater hot as Pleasanton romps

Chris DePrater canned three field goals in the first quarter and the undefeated Pleasanton Dons scored 22 points enroute to an easy 60-35 victory over the Dublin Gaels in Allied Brokers Summer Basketball League action Thursday night at Amador High School.

The Dons, now 6-0, added 16 more points in the second period for a 38-20 advantage. Both DePrater and Don Hall had eight points for Pleasanton in the first half.

Pleasanton continued to build its margin in the second half over the outclassed Gaels.

Rick Howard was hot in the second half for Pleasanton. He led the game's scoring with 13 points. DePrater added 12 and Hall 10 for the Dons.

Ed LaPerle paced the Gaels with 12 points on six field goals. No other Dublin player scored in doublefigures.

Martinez took a 50-46 win over Walnut Creek in another contest. The winners scored 19 points in the second period to tie the score at halftime and breezed in the second half.

Stan VanGrundy paced Martinez with 18 points. Chuck Latting and Barry Woods each added 11 markers for the winners.

Gil Ruiz led Walnut Creek with 13 points. Dana Snapp added 10 on five field goals.

CYSA extends age limits

As a result of a new rule passed recently by the California Youth Soccer Association, all leagues in California will extend their current "under - 18" age groups to include 19 - year olds, according to Art Konecny, age group coordinator for Pleasanton's Ballistic United Soccer Club.

"There was a meeting back east, and I'm sure it was a decision back then to expand the groups," said Konecny. Pleasanton will implement the new rule immediately, and it is assumed Livermore's Al Caffodio Club will do likewise, according to Konecny.

"This will open up a lot of holes for some youngsters who couldn't make it beforehand," explained Konecny. "I assume the entire C.Y.S.A. will go to this rule."

Because of the recent change, Pleasanton is re-opening signups for their upcoming season. Konecny said Ballistic can now move ahead with plans of a "house league," a low-key traveling soccer club in Pleasanton that will play teams from other cities, open to all teen-agers. "I guess you could say it will be a 'fun' league," replied Konecny.

The new rule will permit any young person born as early as 1958 to compete in league competition.

As of this summer, under - 18 teams from all over the valley have played exhibition tilts against West Germany, various Canadian teams and domestic soccer teams from the Far West. The new rule will permit these clubs to stay together one more year.

Anyone interested in signing up for the new season should call 846-2096 for details.

Garcia sparks Cards

Cam Garcia slammed the winning hit to lead the Red Wing Cardinals past the Corrine's Yankees 7-6 for the Livermore City Little League major division title recently.

Garcia's hit came in the bottom of the sixth with two outs. The Yankees had gone ahead with three runs in the fifth stanza.

Bob Peterson led the winners with three hits and one RBI. Garcia added two hits and one RBI. Jason Webster sparked the losers with a double. Scott Macias and Jeff Murray each had an RBI for the Yankees.

Kevin Trudeau was the winning pitcher and Randy Johnson took the loss.

It was the fourth title in a row for the Cardinals. Their four-year record in 67-10.

The Swinging A's won their second straight game of the minor division tournament by topping the Hardware Indians 7-5.

Jeff Nichols and Mark Hood combined to pitch a three-hitter for the winners. The A's belted eight hits. Nichols and Kevin Carnes each had two.

Nichols recently pitched a six-inning no-hitter with 12 strikeouts.

A gesture of love

Members of the Baha'i Faith hope to annually present Pleasanton with a gift of a plant somewhere within the city as a symbolic gesture in honor of one of their religious leaders, Abdu'l Baha, who loved flowers and plants so much, to the city, that they feel, is so caring of its foliage. This year's gift was a rose bush planted at the Century House. Lending a helping hand in the planting ceremonies are Danielle and Telli Luma, with Norma Johnson, Linda Luma and John Jones looking on approvingly.

Young marriages face regulations

The Roman Catholic Diocese of Oakland has issued the following pastoral policy concerning young marriages. The policy will affect those who have not reached their nineteenth birthday by the date of the proposed marriage.

- The couple is to contact their parish priest at least three months before the desired date of the marriage.
- The priest interviews the young man and young woman separately and together to discuss their understanding of marriage and readiness for the sacrament.
- The couple will meet with the professional counselor recommended by the parish priest (selected from an approved list to be provided by the Diocesesan office).
- It is recommended that the parents of those under 19 also visit the parish priest to share their views of the proposed marriage.
- If, after the above interviews and counseling session, there appear no serious objections to proceeding, the priest may at that point, but not before, schedule the date for the wedding, complete the required documents and arrange for the marriage instructions.
- If there are indications that the marriage should not take place, the priest will share his concerns with the couple asking them to delay the marriage for the time being and seek further counseling.
- In every case the final decision to delay or to go ahead with a particular marriage must be authorized by the bishop's office.

Asbury Methodist

LIVERMORE — Continuing his series of sermons to celebrate and review the life and liveliness of God's people from the Nation's beginning till now, the Rev Norman G. Callaway of Asbury Methodist Church, will be speaking on "Whoever Has Ears, Let Them Hear!" at this Sunday's 9 a.m. worship service.

A weaving of 18th, 19th and 20th century church music will fill the worship hour, both the church's offerings and the recorded music of others.

Krishna celebration

SAN FRANCISCO— One of the city's most colorful spectaculars, the Tenth Annual Jagganath Cart Festival, a Krishna celebration, will be held in San Francisco July 24 and 25 in Golden Gate Park.

San Francisco is noted for the diversity of cultural events it hosts and the myriad ways its cosmopolitan population celebrates various ethnic and religious traditions.

In anticipation of the festival, sponsors will present a Day at the Temple, Thursday, July 15 beginning at 10 a.m. The Bay Area Temple of the International Society for Krishna Consciousness, is located at 2334 Stuart St., Berkeley.

Included among the educational events scheduled, are a film showing and a question and answer session covering the philosophy of the Krishna movement, its history and background.

Divine Ministry

PLEASANTON— The Rev. "Betty" Burgle of the Divine Science Ministry, has entitled her sermon for this Sunday's services, "Live Under the Banner of Freedom," as a continuing celebration of our nation's bicentennial.

After the celebrations are over we take time to evaluate — Where do we go from here? Now is the time to start life anew — with a new lease on living. These sermons are geared to help you put your Truth lessons into practice.

St. Philip beckons

DUBLIN— CREATE AND CELEBRATE, a new format of sharing Christ with friends in Vacation Bible School at St. Philip Lutheran Church, corner of Davona and Alcosta, will be held August 2-6 for grades K thu 6 Classes with stories, songs, crafts and games will be held for children who were in grades K-2 last year with the theme of "Shalom, Freedom in Christ."

Children who were in grades 3-6 last year will have an opportunity to choose one of the following workshop sections: "Lion, Witch and Wardrobe," a look into the magical kingdom of Narnia by C.S. Lewis; "Slide Making of Bible Stories," using costumes, scenery etc.; "Cooking," as an introduction to an exciting study of the bible; "Music of Today," a comparative look at traditional hymns; "Photography," to -- express an idea or thought of God's creation; "Why Am I A Lutheran?" a look at similarities and differences with other religions; "Banners for Church or Home;" "Puppets for use in learning Bible stories;" and "Macrame," using a Christian symbol in making a wall hanging.

Crafts for fifth and sixth graders will include stained glass and string art. There will be a fee for this class because of supplies to be used. Crafts for third and fourth graders will include batik and backstrap weaving. There will also be a Creative Worship Service and refreshments each day.

Youth minister does 'his thing' for Jesus

PLEASANTON— With a zest for life and a love of his work, Mathew McClelland, the new youth pastor for the Evangelical Free Church in Pleasanton, is fast becoming a popular figure in the Pleasanton community.

Mat McClelland, Evangelical Free Church's new Youth Minister, has already won over many of the area's young people with his ready smile and warm friendliness.

Acquiring the best of the tradtional traits of his mixed parentage — the big handsomeness of his German - Scotch father and the warm, happy friendliness of his Japanese mother, he continues to win the teenagers under his care.

Working at his first full time position since graduating from Biola Interdenominational College and Talbot Theological Seminary in Los Angeles, he speaks enthusiastically about his "great summer program," and his enthusiasiasm is contageous.

The 23-year-old is still to be ordained, but his life firmly committed to the ministry. Already married five years and the father of "almost" two children, the smiling Mat speaks unabashedly about the Lord saying "This is where I want you to go."

He feels he has a definite affinity for young people and we would be inclined to agree. His young wife, whom he describes as a "real helpmate," works with him on his youth group plans.

He is already involved every night of the week except Monday, coordinating, planning and organizing youth activities. Bible studies, after church socials, sing - a - longs, back - packing, miniature golf, treasure hunts, camping are some of the many plans this young minister has accomplished this summer. He tries to center most of his activities within the city.

Mat feels a real responsibility in meeting the spiritual, emotional and social needs of those under his charge, offering private visits and counseling when needed.

Believing that the prevailing modern philosophy of "Do your own thing," is not the Christian way, he says, "The only life that is satisfying is with Jesus as your guide."

"My goal," he continues, "is doing what Jesus wants me to do. It won't be for my glory, but for Him." "If you really love Jesus," says Mat, you can't help but love others and want them to experience and love Him the same way."

Crediting his faith to the wonderful Baptist Church in which he was raised, and his religious parents, he says he very early was made to believe in Jesus and to hear Him and come to Him with his every need. His church, says Mat, was not "just a superficial atmosphere."

And the atmosphere of his church also prevailed in his home, which he contends is all-important in raising clear-thinking younsters.

"The Bible was our guide for living," says the new Reverend. "My father always corrected my wild antics with discussions of whether is was the 'christian' thing to do."

Although technically still a member of the Whittier Baptist Church, he is convinced that his new allegiance with the Evangelical Free Church is not contradictory since there are "not a lot" of doctrinal differences in the two religions. He first learned of the position in Pleasanton while attending a large Evangelical Free Church in Fullerton, Calif., near the site of his college studies.

He's very happy in his new surroundings at Pleasanton Gardens, his local home, and thinks maybe his coming here might have been pre-ordained. There must be a reason why two and one half years ago he and his wife named their daughter "Pleasance Joy."

Parents may learn to say no

A major cause of drug abuse among youth is peer pressure.

Parents, logically, worry about who their children's friends are whether their youngsters can withstand pressures from their friends to experiment with drugs.

But what parents may not realize is that children can learn, from example, how NOT to cave in under group pressure — or, on the other hand, can learn to bend to others' will if that's what Mom and Dad do.

A quick parents' checklist can reveal whether you, as a parent, are setting a good example when it comes to saying "No:"

Do you:

●Work on committees you don't really have time for?

●Eat or drink something at a party when you don't really want to?

●Become the family message - carrier even though you don't like being used that way?

●Do an errand over and over, even though you feel you're being used and taken for granted?

There's a free six - session training program being offered to teach parents some ways to learn to say "no" (or "yes") appropriately, firmly and without getting angry. The training is based on the idea that parents who are calmly and assertively able to set realistic goals and limits for themselves project self - respect and are more self - actualizing. They will also be good models for their children.

The training program, every Tuesday morning or evening, is called "Assertiveness Training PLUS." It's sponsored by Hotline, the Valley's counseling and education center in Pleasanton, and is free for parents of students in the Livermore, Pleasanton or Dublin schools.

No registration is necessary.

The current series begins July 13, with optional morning or evening sessions: 9:15 to 11:15 a.m. at Franklin Savings and Loan, 561 Main St., Pleasanton (Judi Barbarosh, trainer) or 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Sonoma School, 543 Sonoma Ave., Livermore (Judy Matheson, trainer.)

Further questions on the free communications program can be answered by a Hotline staffer at 462 - 5544.

Nixon daughters

County talks resume

lone dissenting vote in the salary ordinance that touched off the strike, and Charles Santana of Hayward have shown empathy toward the strikers.

Supervisor Joe Bort earned Cooper's wrath by calling a head-to-head meeting last week between union leaders and county officials. Cooper cancelled the meeting while Bort apologized to Groulx.

Bort is not expected to attend the Claremont summit.

Appropriately enough, the announcement says: "Representatives of both the county and unions shall have full authority to negotiate, with the understanding consultation/ confirmation may periodically be required from the principals on each side."

The softening also was triggered by a Thursday telegram from the union directly to the board of supervisors offering 6 per cent pay settlement.

That total pay and fringe benefits package would come to some 6.9 per cent, a union representative said, down from the 7.6 strikers have demanded since the June 2 walkout.

Supervisors have had the county staff draw up cost analyses based on different possible settlements.

Service Employes International Vice President Timothy J. Twomey, research director Richard Liebes, negotiating committee coordinator John Bowers and Paul Varacalli, appointed as the personal representative of SEIU International President George Hardy, will bargain for the union.

County administrator Loren Enoch, county industrial relations representative James Marshall and special representative Caroline Long will join the cryptic "one or two members of the board of supervisors" for the county's side.

Meanwhile, the union is set for a previously scheduled general membership meeting tonight at 7 o'clock. - by Ron Rodriguez

Granada High bills movies for children

LIVERMORE — Children are invited to a series of 75 - cent movie matinees at Granada High this month.

The 27 - member Granada High Yellstaff (cheerleaders) are staging the series as a fundraiser to help scrape together the money to send themselves to training camp in Santa Cruz next month.

Kathy Kelly, varsity Yellstaff head and organizer of the matinees, promises popcorn and soft drinks will also be for sale at the show.

All the movies are in color; 3 to 5 p.m. on Wednesdays in Rooms 504 - 5. Here's the schedule:

July 14: "Cinder - fella," starring Jerry Lewis.

July 21: "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," an animated film based on the Mark Twain classic.

July 28: "The Tinderbox."

Hill'n Dale plans to host public soon

PLEASANTON— All interested parents of pre-schoolers are invited to an open house at Hill'n Dale Pre-School on Thursday, July 22 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

A parent - participation pre-school, it is located off Dougherty Road (north of Dublin K-Mart). Travel right on 5th Street in Camp Parks and turn left on Dow Street.

For more information on Hill'n Dale and the open house, call 828-1434.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

On March 15, 1781, Gen. Nathaniel Greene's forces met British regulars under Lord Cornwallis in hand-to-hand combat at Guilford Courthouse, N.C. The hotly contested struggle ended in a stalemate. At the close of the day, the American forces withdrew and the British claimed a victory but they suffered so severely that British statesman Fox proclaimed "another such victory will ruin the British army." His army crippled, Cornwallis withdrew to Wilmington; then into Virginia and on to Yorktown. The World Almanac recalls.

Down-to-earth brothers

MEAT COOKING KNOW HOW

Various kinds of meat...beef, pork, veal, lamb...can be grouped into two broad classifications of cooking methods. One group will be tender when prepared with dry heat, such as uncovered in an oven, on a broiler grill, over a charcoal fire, or in an uncovered frying pan. The other group will require moist cooking in order to be tender. Moist cooking includes braising, stewing, pot roasting and cooking in liquid. It's important to know which method of cooking is required for each cut of meat purchased. If you have any questions on the cooking method, just ask the meat man behind the counter. He'll be glad to tell you.

Generally, meats that require moist cooking are the more thrifty cuts, such as chuck roast, stewing beef, round steak, flank steak, rump roast, short ribs, corned beef and beef shanks. Cooked properly, these meats are very flavorful and delicious. In preparing pork of any kind, always keep in mind that it should be cooked well done for safe eating. A good cookbook will list the method and time required for cooking the various cuts of meat.

Some basic meat cooking methods are explained here:

ROASTING: Season meat with salt and pepper; place fat side up on rack in open pan. Insert meat thermometer, if desired. Do not add water and do not cover. Roast in slow to moderate oven (300° to 350°F.)

BROILING: Set oven regulator to broil; place meat on grill about 2 to 5 inches from heat. Brown on one side; turn and brown other. Broil to desired doneness. Season after cooking to help retain meat juices.

PAN-BROILING: Season meat and cook uncovered in heavy, ungreased or lightly greased frying pan. Brown on both sides, pouring off fat as it accumulates.

PAN-FRYING: Season meat and cook in small amount of hot fat in skillet, turning to brown both sides. Do not cover.

BRAISING: (POT-ROASTING) Brown meat on both sides in small amount of hot fat in skillet. Season with salt and pepper. Add small amount of water or other liquid; cover and simmer on top of stove or in the oven till done.

BOIL: (COOKING IN LIQUID) Brown meat first, if desired, in heavy pan. Season with salt, pepper, etc., cover with liquid. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer, covered, till tender.
